Hi 2nd and 3rd Period Students !

I hope all of you are doing well and adjusting to the “new normal”. I miss your faces! If you have any concerns you can reach out to me. Our last class lessons before the break were related to how important it is for Health Care Workers to take care of their selves and manage the stress that is unique to these types of professions. I know you are seeing the current events and I hope you are getting an even clearer understanding of how essential your future roles will be. We are seeing some of our class lessons unfold before our eyes!

TTYL,
Wanda Anderson RN

Objectives

Objective / I Can:

- To understand the components of general effective communication and how that can impact everyday misunderstandings. We will apply this learned information to Health Care settings and interactions with co-workers and clients/patients.

Activities

Student Activities: Read the Article “Basics of Communication” and answer the questions on the worksheet.

Go to Teams Folder. Look for the assignment: Basics of Communication Article and Worksheet.

Read the Article “Basics of Communication” and answer the questions on the worksheet.

Questions 8 and 9 are important for you to answer in such a way that shows me that you are able to use the information in the article as a “diving board” to think about how good communication is important in patient care scenarios.
