Hi,

I hope the 1st week of Outreach Learning went well!! This week we will be learning about acronyms. I am attaching an information sheet about what exactly an acronym is. We use acronyms every day, but in the medical field they are an invaluable time saver. Some of these you will recognize and some will be totally new to you. What is important is, to know the term related to the acronym and what the term means, so that you will have context when you are reading or translating medical documentation.

TTYL ! (another acronym)

Objectives

Objective / I Can:

- Understand what an acronym is
- Learn in context common medical acronyms

Activities

Student Activities: Go to our TEAMS and find a folder called ACRONYMS.

Read the Introduction to Acronyms letter. Send me a message per TEAMS that you have read the Introduction and use a common acronym in your message to me. This will be a participation grade so don't forget to do this step.

There is also WORD document with a spreadsheet with about 20 common medical acronyms. You should be able to type directly on this document. I have given you the acronym and the term but, I want you understand what the term means. You can write a brief definition in the meaning column. Save it and then send it to me via TEAMS. . This is your work for the week so it is also a grade.
